CROWDER'S WORK OR FIGHT RULES

CRISIS IN AUSTRIAN DRIVE ON ITALY

Terrific Fighting on Piave, With Allied Leaders Confident of Victory

London, June 21.—The critical moment of the great battle in Italy, which began with the Austrian offensive last Saturday, has been reached, said a wireless dispatch from Rome today. The Austrians have thrown fresh forces into the engagement and violent fighting is taking place on the Piave, especially in the sector of Montello. All Italy is confident that a decisive victory will be won, the dispatch added.

London, June 21.—The battle on the Italian front continues to the advantage of the Italian and allied forces, according to a statement by Premier Orlando for the information of the Chamber of Deputies and received here today.

All attempts of the enemy to widen his gains on the upper Piave failed, while on the lower Piave the Italians drove the Austrians farther back toward the west bank of the stream.

On the northern end of the Piave line, said the premier, the Austrians sought to spread their positions in the Montello salient, but Italian counter attacks held the enemy.

Southeast of the Montello area, the Austrians undertook additional attacks and succeeded in again crossing the railway to Monte Belluna near Nervesa. Here again they were driven back to their original positions. On the lower Piave, the Italians bettered their positions.

A squadron of American aviators have made their appearance on the Italian front, according to additional advices received here today. They joined the other allies in bombing expeditions against the Austrian pontoon bridges across the Piave and partly destroyed several of them.

EXPRESS TRAIN DERAILED, PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

New Britain, Ct., June 21.—The express train from Boston due here at 11:26 a. m. was derailed by spreading rails east of here today. The engine, tender and four cars, a baggage and smoker combination, two passenger coaches and a parlor car left the rails. Passengers were shaken up.

This newspaper is an authorized Farm Labor Agency, No. 107, of the United States Employment Service, Department of Labor, with offices at 53 Canal street, Boston.

WHERE ITALIANS ARE BATTERING HUNS

Photograph at top shows the "call to arms" in the trenches where the brave Italian defenders of the homeland are not only successfully withstanding the shock of the Teuton offensive, but are delivering in return some mighty blows against the foe. Beneath is a scene in the trenches on the Piave. Swollen by recent heavy rains, the flooded river comes as a great held to the Italians in the death struggle, for the Hun invaders are thereby hampered in their desperate plunge to overwhelm beautiful Italy. Hun Patrols Beaten in Encounters With Americans

Washington, June 21.—Hostile patrols continue to come out second best in their encounters with the Americans, says General Pershing's communique for June 20, made public by the War Department today. It follows:

"Section A—Patrolling has again been especially active northwest of Chateau Thierry and in the Woevre. Hostile patrols suffered considerable losses in patrol encounters, and from our machine gun fire. Artillery fighting continues in these regions and in Lorraine.

"Section B—There is nothing to report in this section."

REVOLUTION IS PENDING IN AUSTRIA

By International News Service.

London, June 21.—Following food riots in which 50,000 persons took part, the Vienna labor council adopted resolutions, said a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam today, containing the following demands:

1. That full bread rations be restored.

2. That more food be given to the public.

3. That the government, whenever possible, enter into a general peace on the basis of no annexations and join a league of nations for the enforcement of peace.

4. That Parliament be convened at once.

MANY U. S. DIVISIONS IN ACTION

During Last Month Over 200,000,000 Rounds of Ammunition Were Produced

Washington, June 21.—Thirty-eight miles of front line trenches on the western front are now held by American troops, members of the House military affairs committee were told by War Department officials today.

The committee members were shown a confidential communication from General Pershing giving the number of American divisions now in action. The number is "considerably more than two," they said.

Quantity production of both ammunition and machine guns is going on at high speed, the committee was informed. During the last month 205,-000,000 rounds of .30 calibre ammunition for use in small arms and machine guns were produced in the United States.

There has been no let-up in shipments of troops or supplies because of German U-boat operations off the American coast. Neither has the transport of troops been cut down, as has been generally reported, to catch up with the supply program, the committee was told.

TEN CASUALTIES AT U. S. AVIATION FIELDS

Washington, June 21.—Ten casualties at American flying fields for the week ended June 8 were announced by the War Department this afternoon. They are distributed as follows:

Allied Airplanes to Attempt Flights Over Atlantic

By International News Service.

Washington, June 21.—Trans-Atlantic flights by allied airplanes will be attempted not later than the latter part of September or first of October, it was officially announced here this afternoon by Major-General Branker, chief controller of equipment for the British royal air forces.

MACLEOD HEADS NEW SERVICE COMMISSION

Governor McCall today announced his appointments to the reorganized Public Service Commission.

Commissioners Charles A. Russell of Gloucester and John F. Meaney of Blackstone are dropped, and Commissioners Frederick J. Macleod, Joseph B. Eastman and Everett S. Stone form the new commission.

Commissioner Macleod remains chairman and is appointed for three years. Commissioner Eastman is appointed for two years and Commissioner Stone for one year.

Other appointments announced by the Governor were:

James W. Synan, reappointed to the Highway Commission; Frank A. Brooks, reappointed chairman of Board of Parole, and Henry N. Teague, appointed to special commission to consider sheep and agricultural problems.

Frederick J. Macleod, the chairman of the Public Service Commission, was graduated from Harvard in the class of '91, and from the Law School in '99. He was elected to the State Senate in 1906. In 1909 he became chairman of the Democratic State Committee. He also served as chairman of the State Railroad Commission.

Joseph B. Eastman, one of the ablest experts on public service, was appointed to the Public Service Commission in 1915 by Governor Walsh. His reappointment in 1917 by Governor McCall was due to the splendid interest that he took in public affairs. He has been one of the firmest advocates of public control of the Elevated road.

Charles A. Russell of Gloucester was appointed a member of the Public Service Commission in September, 1915, by Governor Walsh.

CARUSO TO GET $300,000 FOR PLAYING IN MOVIES

By International News Service.

New York, June 21.—The world's leading tenor, Enrico Caruso, is at last to be seen, but not heard, in movies. He has yielded to the tempting offers of the cinema interests of the Famous Players Lasky Corporation, for the sum of $300,000, for two pictures, so it is reported. The first payment of $50,000 has already been paid the famous opera star, which he quietly tucked away in the bank for a rainy day, with more to follow.

The best obtainable information is that the first picture will be a screen version of Leoncavalle's famous "I Pagliacci." The other picture will be either "Tosca" or "La Boheme."

8,976 DRAFTEES CALLED BY CROWDER

By International News Service

Washington, June 21.—A call for 8,976 draft registrants qualified for military service and possessing a grammar school education, was issued today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. Voluntary enlistments will be received up to July 1, after which the number needed to fill the quota will be taken direct. The men will be mobilized on July 15. Twenty-one States are included in the call.

HUNS REPULSED; SUFFER LOSSES AT MERRIS

By International News Service.

London, June 21.—An attempt by the Germans to recapture lost ground at Merris was repulsed, the British War Office announced today. There was raiding and patrol activity at Aveluy wood (north of Arras) and in the sector of the Scarpe valley (east of Arras), all of which terminated successfully for the British.

The British captured prisoners and machine guns, and inflicted many casualties. The text of the official statement follows:

"During the night we captured a few prisoners and machine guns and inflicted many casualties upon the enemy in raids and patrol encounters at Aveluy wood, in the neighborhood of Hebuterne and Boyelles and on both banks of the Scarpe. Several hostile attempts to recapture ground gained by us yesterday morning northwest of Merris were repulsed with losses to the enemy. There is nothing further to report."

Stefala Ranendo, twenty-three, of Water street; Vincenzo Senil, thirty-nine, Water street, and Nate Salvatore, thirty-five, Water street were charged with being idle and disorderly. Diego Guaiani, twenty-five, Margaret street, Boston, was accused of carrying a loaded revolver. All four were held in $200 bail.

BASEBALL MEN MUST WORK

Players of Draft Age Must Seek New Jobs Unless President Intervenes

By International News Service.

Washington, June 21.—Baseball players are engaged in a non-productive occupation, Provost Marshal General Crowder officially ruled this afternoon in interpreting his recent "work or fight" order.

The ruling in effect held that "all persons engaged and occupied in games, sports and amusements, except actual performers in legitimate concerts, operas or theatrical performances, are engaged in non-productive occupations or employments."

It will be up to the local boards to make a specific case in regard to ball players, unless the President specifically exempts them from the Crowder ruling.

PRESIDENT MAY ACT.

Officials in General Crowder's office declined to discuss the specific status of ball players and smilingly referred to the ruling if this literally is carried out, baseball players must either engage in a productive occupation or else be inducted into the army. It is within the power of President Wilson, however, to make an exception in their case.

Whether the President will do this

GOVERNMENT MAY SUE THE WESTERN UNION

Washington, June 21.—In addition to bringing criminal action against the Western Union for sending night letters by courier instead of by wire, it was hinted at the postoffice department today that civil action might be instituted by the government to recover the amount which would have been charged had the messages been carried at the regular postal rates.

EX-MINISTER TO HOLLAND NAVAL DISTRICT CHAPLAIN

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, formerly minister to Holland and voluntary chaplain at the navy yard, has been assigned to duty as chaplain in the First Naval District. dueing to bread, not having had any leguminous food in months.

The New Freie Presse warns that a revolution will break out unless the situation is remedied. This Viennese newspaper declared further that the conditions in Prague and other industrial centres is such that unless the bread rations are increased, the railways will be stopped.

The Arbeiter Zeitung says that Austria's allies must quickly remedy the situation in order to prevent "serious consequences."

Count Tisza, in addressing the Hungarian Parliament at Budapest, said that many provinces have only one-third or one-fourth of the necessary food, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. He added that the situation at Vienna was very bad.

In reply to an appeal from the burgomaster of Vienna the burgomaster of Budapest telegraphed: "We, too, are in a bad way. Flour and bread rations have been decreased and the food lines are long. There is no reserve stock."

A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says that the Socialists at Vienna have issued a manifesto saying that the Austrians do not know how they can live any longer.

Rioting continues in the Austrian capital. Outbreaks are taking place in other cities also.

A great strike of 100,000 workmen has been called in the Vulcan arsenal at Vienna. The workers in the Warschalowski airplane plant are also out.

The Arbiter Zeitung, of Vienna, in a strange article, demands the resignation of Premier Von Seydler.

A dispatch from Copenhagen quoted the German Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts as saying that Hungary had offered 1,000 carloads of potatoes to Vienna, but that there was no prospect of the Austrian food situation being improved for three weeks. Travelers arriving in Switzerland are quoted in dispatches as saying that famine—"stark, medieval famine," threatens all of Austria.

Navy Offers $1,000 for U-Boat Base Information

So persistent have been the rumors that submarine bases have been established by the German government or by pro-German sympathizers to the south of us that it has been decided by the Navy Department to offer a reward large enough to tempt any person or persons to divulge such information.

One thousand dollars is to be given to the person or persons who informs the Navy Department of the authentic proof of a base furnishing supplies to the German submarines, apparently yet off our shores.

This radical move to obtain such information has the sanction of the Secretary of the Navy, according to the information given out at the local office of Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, U. S. N., commandant of the Third Naval District, at No. 280 Broadway, New York.

Today's War Summary

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

The Austro-Hungary drive which was started against the Italians several days ago has turned from an offensive operation to a defensive one.

Austria's crushing defeat is being emphasized from day to day. Latest advices from the Italian theatre of war show the Italians and their French-British allies attacking in force over the whole battle line and gaining everywhere.

It is estimated that the Austrians have lost close to fourteen divisions in killed, wounded and prisoners, and all they have gained is a precarious footing on the western bank of the Piave River at several places and the occupation of about a dozen square miles of blood-soaked ground.

Heavy fighting has been taking place along the forty mile stretch of front between the Montello sector and the Adriatic, especially of the lower Piave, where the Italians have retaken Capo Sile.

(Capo Sile, which is on the Piave, is seventeen miles from Mestre, which must be taken before the Austrians could force their way into Venice.)

The whole Austrian line in the Montello zone was shaken by the Italian advance north of the Monte Belluna railway and the hold on the Austrians on the slopes of Montello is being weakened.

Conditions are becoming more and more advantageous for the allies along the entire field of combat, especially so on the Piave, which has become further swollen by torrential rains which fell on Thursday.

Whether or not the Germans will send reinforcements into the Italian theatre to bolster up their hard-pressed neighbor is an unanswered question as yet, but it is probable that this will be done if reserves can be spared.

Internal conditions in Austria-Hungary are so disastrous at present that the German high command would doubtless give aid rather than see the Austrians sustain a worse defeat than they have already suffered.

The lull in the infantry fighting on the battlefields in France continues. There have been minor operations, one of which was brilliantly carried out by Americans on the Marne front, but the main forces are still resting on their arms.

U. S. SOLDIER SPAT UPON BY HUNS

Buffalo Man Forced to Work Under Gunfire of U. S. Troops

By HENRY G. WALES,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

With the American Army in France, June 21.—Private James Donohue of Buffalo, N. Y., the first American prisoner to escape from the Germans and re-enter the American lines, declares that for several days during his captivity he was subjected to indignities by German officers, non-commissioned officers and privates.

Donahue does not believe the Germans are influenced by the Junkers or militarists, but says every one in Germany hates the Americans and all are eager to smash the United States army.

KICKED BY GERMANS.

He told the following story:

"I attacked with our boys and ran into a lot of Fritzes. One of them hit me on the head with his rifle butt and when I recovered consciousness he took me before an officer. Every one I passed along the road kicked, jeered, and even spat at me.

"The officer asked me how many divisions we had over here. I said thirty. He didn't believe me. A guard watched me all night long. At daybreak he gave me smears and without breakfast I had to gut brush that was to serve as camouflage for machine guns.

"I was working close to the front lines, and American machine gun bullets whistled past me for fair. I had to work all night. When I tried to sleep the guard would kick me and I'd resume my brush cutting. I saw three Germans disguised in American uniforms. Finally the guards gave me black bread and thin soup, I couldn't get any coffee.

"Afterwards I dug trenches to bury Germans—two and three deep rows. Finally, one night, I found my guard sleeping. I hit him over the head with my pick axe. He never moved.

MANAGED TO RUN AWAY.

"I ran away and, running, met German Red Cross dogs in the wood. I got water from canteens on their backs and found some hunks of bread. Finally I got where shells were bursting everywhere, and I thought it was all up, but I ducked along. When I got to our lines a sentry summoned me to halt. I replied:

"I am an American. Don't shoot! So he passed me through into the American lines. I slept in the woods that night and then reported. The Germans have lots of big guns—ten inches, I guess—but lots of Germans have been killed and lots wounded. The Germans seemed to be working hard preparing to defend their country when we attack them."

The total holding of Liberty Bonds, United States bonds and certificates of indebtedness amounted on May 10 to $2,657,000,000, an increase of $1,889,000,000 over May, 1917.

'ACE' BAYLIES IS TUMBLED BY FOUR HUNS

Paris, June 21.—Lieutenant Frank Baylies of New Bedford, Mass., one of the American "aces" flying with the French army, has been brought down eight miles within the German lines following a duel with German airmen, said a dispatch from the front today.

Baylies was attacked by four Germans while making a flight.

A French airman who witnessed the fight last saw Baylies' machine on fire making for the ground.

The American "ace" belonged to a flying squadron known as the "Storks" and is credited with having shot down eleven German machines.

The fight occurred on Monday. The sky was overcast and heavy clouds were hanging low, which made the visibility very bad. Baylies and his companions did not see the German machines and were attacked unexpectedly.

Mayor Calls on All Citizens of Boston to Rally for Loyalty Week

By ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor of Boston.

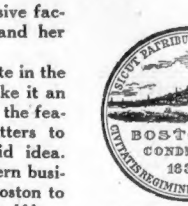
MAYOR PETERS.

The idea for a "Loyalty Week" in Boston is a splendid one. I intend to [illegible] within my power to make it a success. I understand that the plan is working well in New York where it is now being tried. Every Bostonian should give the proposition his whole-hearted support.

There are no more patriotic people in the country than the residents of this historic city. The loyalty of the people of Boston has been tested from early Colonial days up to the present minute and has never been found wanting.

Whenever there was a crisis in the history of the country Bostonians were among the first to give their aid to the government regardless of political affiliations. The steadfast loyalty of the kind given by people of this city will be the decisive factor in the victory that is to come to the United States and her allies in this great struggle for World Democracy.

I call upon each individual in the city to participate in the events arranged for "Loyalty Week" and thereby make it an unqualified success. I am especially in favor of one of the features planned for in the program—namely, writing letters to soldiers and sailors on a specified date. It's a splendid idea. People are apt to be a trifle careless in the rush of modern business life. This plan to send thousands of letters from Boston to the men in the service during "Loyalty Week" will in itself be a wonderful thing.



SEAL OF CITY OF BOSTON.

LEADING CITIZENS ENDORSE LOYALTY WEEK; SUCCESS OF PLAN ASSURED

Boston's "loyalty week"—June 28 to July 4—under the auspices of the Boston Public Safety Committee, is going to be a big success in the opinion of leading citizens.

That there is great need for such a week for the purpose of stirring the patriotism of the people is the belief of many prominent men and women who endorse the proposition.

Wilfred A. Wetherbee, assistant quartermaster general of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R. and head of the State Aid organization, feels strongly about the matter.

"When one stands on the sidewalk," said Mr. Wetherbee, who is one of the most prominent G. A. R. men in New England, "witnessing the passing of a parade and finds two-thirds and more of the onlookers failing to uncover as the Flag passes by it would seem that something is needed to start a blaze of loyalty in the hearts of these undemonstrative people."

RESPECT THE FLAG.

The respect due the Stars and Stripes and the national anthem is frequently not given in this city. While "The Star-Spangled Banner" was being played one evening this week at a leading place of entertainment in Boston the writer heard women directly back of him giggling and talking. In the opinion of officials of patriotic societies that spirit should be educated out.

One of the objects of "loyalty week" is to instill in the minds of the people greater love of Flag and Country, and to bring home to them what this country is fighting for in Europe.

Governor McCall has already endorsed the plan for a period devoted to these purposes. He believes the "loyalty week" idea a good one. Mayor Andrew J. Peters has followed the Governor's lead by endorsing the plan of the Public Safety Committee. He has been named a member of the "loyalty week" committee by Chairman Victor A. Metz of the Boston Public Safety Committee and promises to do whatever he can to make the plan a success. He will speak at several meetings during the week.

The Public Celebrations Committee of the city of Boston is preparing an elaborate program for July 4 as a climax of the week's exercises. Daniel MacKay is chairman of the loyalty committee of the Public Celebrations Committee.

PLAN BIG CELEBRATION

Concerning the plans of the committee for the Fourth, Mr. MacKay said: "We are planning to make the celebration of the Fourth of July in this city one of the most successful. If not the most successful, since the Public Celebrations Committee came into existence eight years ago. There will be a flag raising on Boston Common at 9 a. m. at which there will be present detachments from the United States army and navy. The flag will be raised by Mayor Peters.

"From the balcony of the Old State House the Declaration of Independence will be read by a boy or girl high school student.

"An Americanization meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m., which will be attended by newly made citizens. We hope to secure Secretary of the Interior Lane as the chief speaker. Boy Scouts of America will act as ushers and the Mayor will preside.

"In addition we are arranging for local celebrations during the morning at the twenty-eight city playgrounds. Simple patriotic exercises will be conducted.

"On the Common, athletic games, chiefly for soldiers and sailors, will be held, beginning at 10 a. m. Another program at Charlesbank, including swimming races, is being planned.

"In the morning 2,000 children from the thickly settled South End will be conveyed from Curtis to Franklin Park to run around on the grass and get some fresh air.

TO ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

"The children will meet at the various social centers before boarding the special trolley cars. Ice cream and cake will be given to all the children at the park. Children under 14 years of age will be permitted to go.

"One of the finest events of the day will be the lowering of the colors at sunset on Boston Common when thousands of patriotic citizens will stand with bared heads to see Old Glory descend. This is always a beautiful spectacle. A fine program to which many races will participate has been arranged for the evening. A platform is to be erected over the Frog Pond. Each race will sing native songs and dance native steps. Already leading members of 29 races in this city have promised to participate and we expect many more will signify their intention to do so.

"These groups will be attired in native costume and their singing and dancing should be picturesque."

In addition to the program as outlined by Mr. MacKay several patriotic songs will be sung by the entire gathering which it is estimated will include 75,000 people. The Public Celebrations Committee is being assisted in planning the community singing by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot, chairman, Mrs. Frederick Cunningham, Mrs. Frank Monks and Miss Elizabeth S. Porter. Dr. A. T. Davison, song leader at Camp Devens, will be the principal leader for the Boston Common program.

Statements by leading Bostonians endorsing "loyalty week" follow:

By JOHN E. GILMAN, Past Commander-in-Chief, G. A. R.—As one who offered his life for his country in the Civil War, and who left his right arm at Gettysburg, I am struck with the significance of the above title.

Our Country means everything to us, home and family and friends; happiness and prosperity, and pride in our State and Nation, help for the weak against the strong; succor for the oppressed from the oppressor, and, above all, peace and the freedom of mankind.

Loyalty Week will help bring all these things about. Let all patriots everywhere, indoors and outdoors, and solemnly pledge themselves to do all in their power to accomplish the desired results. Above all, to encourage in every way possible our soldiers who are fighting the battles for God and humanity.

One way of doing this is suggested to me by my own experience in the Army of the Potomac. I well remember the coming of the mail to our comrades. How the boys ran in crowds seeking and hoping for a letter from home! How delighted were those who were fortunate enough to be one, but oh how disappointed and dejected were the poor fellow who went back to their tents without a message from those they loved.

As it was then, so it is now; nothing makes a soldier happier than the receipt of a letter; if not from his family, then from his friends, or from one who takes an interest in him.

May my experience be an incentive to the boys and women, girls and boys of the present day to write to the soldiers "Over there." I do not mean that the writers to do, but it means much to those who will read their writings, and the last Loyalty Week be marked by a most wonderful increase in letters to the brave boys who are willing to die that we may live.

By WILFRED A. WETHERBEE, Assistant Quartermaster General, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R.—I am heartily accord with the idea of a Loyalty Week. Never has there been a time when principles of loyalty needed exemplication more than the present. Notwithstanding the fact that we are at war, many of our people are asleep and fail to recognize the necessity of every good citizen doing something to increase the spirit of loyalty in the minds of the present and coming generations.

When one stands on the sidewalk witnessing the passing of a parade and finds two-thirds and more of the onlookers failing to uncover as the flag passes by, it would seem that something is needed to start a blaze of loyalty in the hearts of these undemonstrative people. It would be a good thing if at every gathering Loyalty Week the matter of saluting the Flag on all occasions should be brought to the front and urged upon the people until a person would feel ashamed to be found remiss in such a simple duty.

Off with your hats as the Flag passes by.

14 ARRESTED IN CRUSADE ON VICE

Three Women Are Captured by Park Police on Charles River Esplanade

Eight more women and six men have been arrested in the vice crusade, three of the women being taken into custody with Chief Silver Saturday by the Park police.

On all the streets downtown the crusade is being waged with vigor, but the results are small, due it is said to the fact that the women have disappeared to other cities and towns. Much of the police vigilance is being exercised for the discretion of men who come in the idle and disorderly class, and several arrests were made on warrants.

It is understood that the police are to give special attention to gamblers from now on.

The score by station was: Hanover street, one woman; City Hall avenue, three women and five men; Tremont street, one man; East Dedham street, one woman; park police, three women.

Springfield Police Chief Inaugurates Anti-Vice Drive to Protect Soldiers

Springfield, June 21.—The presence in Springfield of nearly 1,000 soldiers engaged in guard duty at the United States Arsenal, and War Department depots established here since the beginning of the war, has resulted in the inauguration of an anti-vice campaign by Chief of Police William J. Quilty, which has as its object the banishing of all immoral women from the city. He has the hearty co-operation of police executives in all cities and towns surrounding the city.

The coming of the soldiers also heralded the arrival of a number of unattached women, who have been rounded up and shipped out of town as fast as the police or the provost guards ran across them. Now, however, Chief Quilty plans to make a thorough and complete housecleaning job of it, and has given fair warning that his men will receive emphatic orders as to how to deal with women found soliciting the favor of soldiers.

The civil and military authorities have worked in complete harmony in guarding the morals of the young men sent here for guard duty, many of them being hundreds of miles from home, and so far they have succeeded in keeping the name of the city clean.

"It is our solemn duty to protect these boys," Chief Quilty declared. "And we shall use every means at our disposal to turn in a good report of our stewardship."

BEDFORD PUPILS GIVE $100 TO RED CROSS

Bedford, June 21.—Two "war-time" gifts were presented at the graduation exercises of the Bedford school in the Town Hall. One was $100 to the local branch of the Red Cross. The pupils raised the money by selling articles made in the sewing and manual training classes at the school. The other gift was a Liberty bond to the school, the income to be used for decorating the school. There were twenty graduates in the class.

CHILDREN WARM UP TO LETTER CONTEST

Many Write to American, Telling How They Buy "War Savies"

"I am a poor boy, but I do not care. I'd rather win the war than buy candy."

That's the way eight-year-old John Andaloro of Noddle Island begins his letter in the Boston AMERICAN War Savings Stamp Letter Contest for the schoolboys and girls of Boston and New England. The contest offers awards for the best letters on how to earn money for War Savies. John has the real patriotic spirit. His letter continues:

I save every cent that I have. Sometimes I help by carrying pieces of wood for my mother. She gives me five cents. Sometimes my mother gives me a nickel to go to the movies. But instead I save them. I am only a little boy, not quite nine. I have one War Savings Stamp and a Thrift Stamp. I am in the fifth grade.

That's John. He's one of 11 children, who live at 14 Noddle Island street, East Boston. There are five boys, ranging from Nicky, who is twenty-four years old and earns $23 a week, down to John, who boasts nine years. There are also six girls, ranging from Sara, who is 21 and married, down to Nellie, aged four.

Nellie is John's special charge, and when he isn't earning money for stamps he's looking out for Nellie. So all round is a wonderful boy and an optimist. He's much too busy to be anything else.

Some of today's most interesting letters follow:

ARNOLD J. INGALLS, thirteen years: When I get a chance I shine shoes for my father and other near relatives. I also do errands. Make the beds, help clean house, wash dishes, help cook. I am also going to sacrifice my bicycle for the war stamp fund. I have earned one war stamp, and am now starting the second. Although I am a boy, I am a good cook.

Ingalls School, Quincy.

CECELIA NELSON, eight years: I live on the tip of Cape Cod. I earn money for thrift stamps by working for my mother and neighbors. I wash and wipe the dishes, sweep and wash the floors. My neighbor gives me 35 cents every Saturday.

19 Pearl street, Provincetown.

ALFRED FLORES, ten years: I make my money by working on a fish wharf. We clean the fish and take the gills out. Then we put them into a barrel and salt them. Then we unload them, after they are pickled we send them to Boston or New York. And after the money comes we get our pay.

34 Commercial street, Provincetown.

ANNIE NELSON, ten years: I earned money for Thrift Stamps by going on errands and helping my mother. I get twenty-five cents a week for helping her. This summer I am going to pose for the artists and earn more money to buy more stamps.

19 Pearl street, Provincetown.

DOUGLAS MUMFORD, ten years: I wash the mail right and morning; weed the garden, carry in the wood and run errands. I have in my garden onions, beans, lettuce, potatoes, parsnips, peas, beets, carrots, radishes, squash and musk melons. In the Fall I expect to sell the vegetables. I have altogether saved up four dollars. I am ten years old. I expect another job pretty soon.

South street, Charles River Village.

MARJORIE GRAHAM, ten years: The way I earn my W. S. S. money is: I run errands for my grandmother. Some times instead of going to the theatre I save my money for W. S. S. Some weeks, when I do my practicing good, my mother gives me an extra quarter to buy a stamp.

45 Parkman street, Boston, Harris school, Grade 5.

HERBERT W. BLOOMQUIST, eleven years: I am writing to tell how I earn my money for War Savings Stamps. I have earned my money for one stamp by taking care of my little sister and doing my mother's errands also by doing errands for my aunts and by helping my cousin while visiting him in the country. I go to the Agassis school and I am in the sixth grade. I am pledged for two more stamps, which I am going to earn myself.

25 Boynton st., Jamaica Plain.

FRANK GRAEFNER, nine years: I am writing to you to tell you how I first earned money to buy W. S. S. I decided to carry evening papers. The first week I got fifty cents with which I got two Thrift Stamps. Now I am getting $1.50 a week. Now I have a $5 stamp. I do errands for my grandmother and get quite a little money.

35 Pleasant st., Reading, Centre school.

MILDRED RYAN, twelve years: I have earned money to buy War Savings Stamps by running errands for the neighbors and for my mother, doing dishes and other housework, taking care of children and, when my uncle gave me money for a cream I saved it. I will try with all my might and main to earn money to buy War Savings Stamps and to do it with a free will.

52 Simpson avenue, West Somerville, Cutler School.

DONALD K. SPINNEY, nine years: I want to tell you how I earn my W. S. S. I went on a grocery team and help the boy after school. I get up early Saturday. I walk to get the team. I make from twenty-five to fifty cents. I have $1.75 in W. S. S. now. I have a brother "Over There" and I mean to help him get the Kaiser.

44 Abbott street, Worcester, Midland Street School.

WOMEN WORKERS' NATIONAL LEAGUE IN SESSION

Wellesley College farmerette on horseback, giving welcome today to delegate to convention of Leaue of Women Workers at Wellesley. The farmerette is Miss Elizabeth Kingsley of Cleveland, Wellesley College student. The delgate is Miss Emma Addicks of New York.

The National League of Women Workers is holding its tenth biennial convention at Wellesley College, with about 318 delegates representing clubs from all over the country.

The league is an organization of social clubs, which are entirely self-governed, self-supporting and non-sectarian—the only organization of its kind in the country. Founded in 1887 by some of the mothers of today's members, the league has gradually grown to include thousands of women, representing working girls of all ages and types.

The convention began with a meeting in Billings Hall at Wellesley College, opened by Edith S. Tufts, the dean of the college, who welcomed the delegates.

Mrs. Henry Ollesheimer, the national president, responded, thanking the college for the use of its buildings.

Papers read by the girls themselves on the war activities of the different clubs followed, "Heroism and How to Show It," "What Is Democracy?" and "The Most Patriotic Use of the Clubs," being especially interesting. One of the Western clubs, for instance, is doing its bit by raising sheep. "Democracy and Its Relation to Business" was the subject of an excellent paper read by Miss Marie Jones of the Hobart Club of Boston.

All of the organizations are engaged in work directly connected with the war, but the biggest contribution of the league is to provide the social life for the girls who are its members.

In the afternoon the delegation was taken out through Concord and Lexington in cars lent for the purpose. Later a continuance of the morning session was held under the direction of the Connecticut clubs.

This evening at 7 o'clock there will be a meeting in Powers Hall, after which the delegates will adjourn to the barn for dancing.

Tomorrow more papers on subjects related to the work of the clubs will be read, and in the afternoon the workers will visit the Hunnewell gardens in Wellesley.

AUSTRIAN PROFESSOR AT YALE ARRESTED

New Haven, Conn., June 21.—Professor Ernest Isaac Werber, an Austrian, who holds a fellowship at Yale, has been arrested and will be interned, it is expected. Miss Rhoda Erdmann, another distinguished scholar, who was studying at Yale, was recently arrested and interned.

THOUSANDS LOST BY KILLING FROST

Thousands of dollars' worth of crops were ruined in New England by frost today.

Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont all suffered from the frost. In sections of these States the mercury fell below the freezing point.

Hundreds of war gardens were destroyed. In some cases the entire planting of big farms has been ruined.

It is too late in the season to replant some of the crops, and there will be a scarcity of them in the market.

The Cape Cod section was hard hit, especially the low-lying cranberry bogs.

Middlesex, Essex and Plymouth counties, which supply the Boston market with garden truck, were other sections particularly affected.

Corn, squash, potatoes, beans, cucumbers and tomatoes were the chief victims. In some cases even peas perished.

This, the last day of Spring, the longest day of the year, will go on record as the Jonah day of New England's war gardeners.

In Lexington early rising farmers found a temperature of thirty-one degrees. In Arlington, where many of the largest truck gardens supplying the Boston market are located, the temperature was somewhat higher, and many gardens escaped the worst ravages of the frost, losing but part of the planting.

North Reading, Reading, Wilmington, Burlington, Woburn, Lexington and Pembroke are among the places hardest hit.

The minimum temperature in Boston was forty-nine degrees, but in many surrounding places the mercury fell to thirty-four degrees, and in the low sections to thirty-one and even thirty degrees.

The most of Major Gardner's personal property was in shares of stock and bonds of large corporations.

2,000 PER CENT PROFIT ON COAL

Washington, June 21.—Records of incomes and excess profits of American business during 1917 were supplied the Treasury Department to the House Ways and Means Committee, drafting the new revenue bill, today.

This data, compiled by Collector of Internal Revenue Roper in levying income and excess profits taxes, contained many revelations to the committee. The fact that the law requires the Treasury Department to keep such information secret prevented disclosure of the most startling facts placed before the committee.

It was learned, however, that many businesses showed enormous profits during the first nine months of the war. The coal business for instance, showed profits ranging up to 2,000 per cent.

The committee considered two methods of levying excess profits taxes today. Under one method, that in vogue in England, extremely heavy levies would be made on profits growing directly out of the war, while profits that would have accrued regardless of the war would be only lightly taxed. The alternate plan is that now in practice here under which all excess profits are taxed.

U. S. WILL SUPPLY LABOR FOR INDUSTRIES OF WAR

Washington, June 21.—The U. S. Employment Service was today rushing to completion its labor recruiting and supplying machinery to enable it to take over the supply of common labor to war industries exclusively after Aug. 1. While the date for the beginning of the Federal labor recruiting plan has been postponed by the President, at the recommendation of Secretary of Labor Wilson, from July 15 to Aug. 1, the Federal employment service expects to be able to begin wholesale recruiting by the middle of next month. After Aug. 1 no employer with war business who employs more than 100 workers can get common labor except through the Federal employment agency.

Filene's — A full day Saturday to buy that vacation or graduating outfit

STORE HOURS 8:30 TO 5:30 EVERY DAY, INCLUDING SATURDAY, IN JUNE—IN JULY AND AUGUST WE CLOSE ALL DAY SATURDAY

Taking a real vacation!

For five years now we have maintained the schedule of closing hours with which you may by this time have become familiar:

In June open every day until 5:30, open all day on Saturday.
In July and August closed all day Saturday.

Our employees have repeatedly expressed themselves as strongly in favor of closing the store all day on eight Saturdays as opposed to closing half a day on twelve Saturday afternoons, though both plans mean practically the same total hours of work.

The reasons are that this plan gives our people a two days' rest in each of the hottest weeks of the Summer. Our employees also say that a whole day off is more than twice as long as a half day off, when you consider the time lost in getting to and from work.

But this year, on top of the other reasons, the whole-day Saturday closing is a help to conservation. Keeping this large store closed on eight full days saves a considerable quantity of coal through the complete closing down of elevator service and electric lights.

KNICKERS

IT is easy to find the best-liked style because it is certain to be here in more than one material. The sketch shows the favorite with two rows of elastic at the knees, in shimmery washable pink satin, $5; in another quality of satin, $3.50; in firm, very pretty silk-figured madras, $3.50; in pink batiste, 85c.

NOTE: Many of the nicer satin knickers are adorably decorated with very fine laces and sometimes satin medallions are hemmed in by lace and exquisitely embroidered in color. Knickers like these are $5.

Women's silk jersey dress-suits $29.50

They make a particular appeal to all the women who say they never feel well dressed except in a suit.

We call them "dress suits" because they are as cool and light and graceful as a dress.

The silk jersey lends itself admirably to summer activities because it is enduring and elastic and does not wrinkle. The colors are beautiful.

$29.50, suit shop, fifth floor; hat shop, sixth floor.

Ostrich trimmed transparent hats, $7.50

Meeting all the requirements of a light, dressy summer hat inexpensively.

Fairly large sailors and mushrooms a trifle smaller, all trimmed in one pretty way or another with bands of fluffy ostrich. Some have transparent matine or Georgette crowns and brims of ostrich, others have transparent brims and crowns banked with the ostrich. All ribbon edged to make them more durable. In all white, pink, navy, black and pearl gray.

$4 $1.25

Pale "Sunbeam" silk petticoats—new and lovely, $4

Cool, light, luxurious, yet practical as a petticoat could be because they may be tubbed satisfactorily and the double panels in front and back make silhouettes impossible. All the pretty scallops are double. Lengths 34 to 40.

A new old-fashioned rosebud dimity negligee, $1.25

The style is simplicity itself because the delightful dimity needs nothing to make it attractive. The rosebuds, strangely enough, come in pink, blue and lavender. All the edges are scalloped in color to match the buds. Sizes 36 to 44.

What Nuxated Iron is made from Sworn Statement of Composition of Its Formula.

It increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time in many instances.

THE Board of Directors have authorized the broadest publication of the sworn statement of the composition of Nuxated Iron, and of the most widely known tonic, strength and blood builders in the world, so that the public may examine it for themselves and judge as to its merits.

It is conservatively estimated that this remarkable formula is now being used by over 1,000,000 people annually in America alone. Among those who have heard and strongly endorse it are many physicians formerly connected with well-known hospitals, former United States Senators, Vice-Presidential Nominees, Cabinet Members, former members of Congress, distinguished U.S. Army Generals (Retired), Judge Atkinson of the United States Court of Claims at Washington and former Health Commissioner Kerr, of Chicago.

Newspaper reporters are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and keep it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to any one who desires such. It is as follows:

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard which in our opinion possesses certain advantages over other known form of iron. By using other makes of iron Pentonate one would have to get the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us, and by using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have most certainly impaired their therapeutic efficacy. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron are one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorus in a state very similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of man.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron Pentonate and Glycerophosphates are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons, is very great and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see that bottles are plainly labeled "Nuxated Iron" by the Due Health Laboratories, Paris, London, and Detroit, U. S. A., as this is the only genuine article. If you have taken other forms of iron without results, this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you. We guarantee satisfaction to every purchaser or your money will be refunded.

Regard to the value of Nuxated Iron, Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon Chicago City of Chicago, and former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says: It has proven through his own tests of it to excel any preparation he has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves and strengthening the muscles." Dr. J. W. Armfield, Selma, Ala., graduate of the University of Alabama School of Medicine, 1913, says: "In the cases I used Nuxated Iron I found from three beneficial results than from any preparation I have ever used in 11 years' practice." Dr. A. M. Shivers, Pollville, Miss., graduate of the Memphis Hospital College, Memphis, 1894, says: "I always prescribe Nuxated Iron where a reconstructive tonic is indicated." Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time.

Manufacturers' note: Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike other patent medicines, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make you bilious or constipated. Nuxated Iron is not recommended for the cure of acute illness, but only as a tonic, strength and blood builder. Ask your druggist for it by name (not your family physician and be guided by his advice). If in doubt as to whether or not you need a tonic ask your doctor, as we do not wish to sell Nuxated Iron to any one who does not need it, and if it does not help you, notify us and we will return your money. It is sold by all druggists. Due Health Laboratories, Detroit, Mich.

TELLS OF HOMER'S TALKS WITH WOMAN

Dentist's Aide Quotes Mrs. Wilbur as Saying That She "Fudged" Her Age.

grapher and telephone operator in the doctor's office and that she had made records, at the doctor's request, of telephone conversations which he had with Mrs. Wilbur.

She said that she had seen Mrs. Wilbur frequently at the doctor's office and that she had heard her say over the telephone, in a conversation with the doctor, that she had moved from one hotel to another to be near the doctor.

TRIED TO RETURN TO BOSTON.

Q.—What did the doctor say? A.—That they had better end their relations; that she should go back to Boston but that he couldn't depend on her.

Q.—What was her reply? A.—She said they had better not be married but that she made a better sweetheart than Miss Knight. "People would think me an old fool if I married you," she said. She said she had "fudged" her age when she gave it as forty-three.

Q.—Was anything said about what the doctor did? A.—Yes, she said that regardless of what anyone did or said, she loved him dearly and liked to feel in his power.

She said the doctor called her on the telephone at another time and asked her why she did not have her attorney get her jewels back.

Q.—What was said about the jewels? A.—Mr. McPherrin, her attorney, said she would be prosecuted for immoral conduct if she did not get them back.

Q.—Did they make any engagement? A.—He asked her to meet her at the hotel at once.

Q.—What was the name of the hotel? A.—I don't think the name was mentioned.

The apparent discrepancy of these replies was not discussed.

OFFER TO REDEEM JEWELS.

Q.—Did you hear anything about an ulcerated tooth? A.—Yes, the doctor asked her to come to his office to have her ulcerated tooth treated. She replied that her attorney thought she was using his professional services as a stall.

Q.—Anything else over the phone? A.—Yes, the doctor called to offer to take the jewels out of pawn. She replied that the jewels would sell for $5,000 and if necessary she would add any amount of jewels. She said her brother would not let her have any money.

Q.—Did you hear any conversation over the phone before Dr. Homer left Los Angeles? A.—Yes. Mrs. Wilbur asked Dr. Homer to call the Hotel Maryland and say that he had forced his way into her room and tried to force her to marry him. She said it was up to him to do this; that she had told the management and Mrs. Singer that she would not have taken brandy the night before if he had not been running after others.

Q.—Did you hear any word about her brother? A.—She said since her brother-in-law died her brother had threatened to leave her business in Boston, and that would be disastrous. She asked the doctor if he would manage the business for her if he did so.

DOCTOR'S BIG RECEIPTS.

Q.—What did the doctor say? A.—He said he would, but that it would take six months to dispose of his own business first.

Q.—Did you examine the doctor's books? A.—Yes; they showed that for the two years from April, 1915, to April, 1917, the gross receipts were $66,000.

She testified that Mrs. Wilbur had asked the doctor to let her have $500 and that he said he would.

Q.—Was anything said about marriage? A.—He said he would get Birchley to find some small place where they could live cheaply after they were married, and she said she would sell her place in Boston. She wanted to make arrangements to go away for the week-end. She said she wouldn't ask him to leave Los Angeles if he would call up the Hotel Maryland. He said he didn't like to be forced, but that he would call the Hotel Maryland. He said he was going to leave Los Angeles anyway.

Miss Montgomery testified that she had seen $14,000 in Dr. Homer's office shortly before he went to Chicago, had put half of it in the safe and he had taken the rest.

Q.—After the doctor left did you see Mrs. Wilbur? A.—Yes, at her apartment at the Hotel Maryland. I went there twice. A telegram came to the doctor's office for Mrs. Wilbur after he left.

UNSIGNED MESSAGES.

Q.—Did you send a telegram to the doctor after he left? A.—Yes, after I saw Mrs. Wilbur. She asked me to wire Dr. Homer not to sign messages to her sent to hotels, and that she would rather have them go to me at his office.

The message was introduced. It said that Mrs. Wilbur would let the doctor know when she left Los Angeles, within a week.

Q.—Did she later telegraph when she left? A.—Yes, at 1 o'clock Wednesday via the Santa Fe. She asked me to send the message to Dr. Homer, which I did. The message also contained the words, "Wire her care of me how you are." She told me to write to the doctor to be sure to erase her name from the jewel box and to be careful of them; not to sell them in Chicago unless to get a high price and to get bids in Boston and New York.

Q.—Did Mrs. Wilbur say anything to you about marriage? A.—Yes, she said she would fool them all some day and marry the doctor.

EMPLOYES KNOWN BY LETTERS.

The witness testified regarding the disposal of Dr. Homer's business to Dr. D. E. Foster. She said that all the office staff were discharged except herself and that she was still in his employ. She had custody of all the papers in the office relating to Dr. Homer's business.

Everybody in the office was called by letters instead of by their name. Miss Foster was known as "Miss A." The witness was known as "Miss M." not because it was the initial of her name, but because another "Miss M" preceded her.

Q.—Did you know that Dr. Homer borrowed money from the bank and pledged his office furniture? A.—Yes.

Q.—You heard Dr. Homer and Mrs. Wilbur talking on the phone regarding the note of April 18 for $6,500 and the reason Mrs. Wilbur gave for wanting money? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you listen to every conversation? A.—No, sir; only when he buzzed for me to do so. The first day I was there I was told to make notes of Mrs. Wilbur's conversation.

Q.—Where are the notes? A.—Mr. Hirchley has them.

Q.—You knew from the first there was a love affair between Dr. Homer and Mrs. Wilbur? A.—Yes.

WORRIED ABOUT THE DOCTOR.

Q.—You took notes of conversation about her going to his room and all that sort of stuff? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you tell Dr. Fomer you wouldn't take money for doing that kind of work? A.—No.

The witness testified that a check for $500 was a large one for Dr. Homer's office. She said the doctor's office kept a supply of checks on different banks on hand, although he had accounts in only two banks.

She said that Mrs. Wilbur sent for her one day and said she was worried about the doctor. She had the doctor's letter under her pillow and showed them to the witness.

Mrs. Wilbur said she thought everything of the doctor and would do anything for him.

Q.—Did you make notes of this conversation? A.—No.

Q.—Did she give any reason, when you went to the Hotel Maryland and she gave you a message for the doctor, why she did not send it over the phone? A.—Yes, she said she didn't want the people in the hotel to hear what she said.

Q.—Did she send for you again? A.—Yes, she sent her machine for me, and when I arrived at the hotel she told me to communicate with the doctor. She told me that I should tell him to call at the Congress Hotel in Chicago under the name of Clerk.

ASKED TO DELIVER BOTTLE.

Q.—Did she tell you the reason for sending the letter was because the Federal authorities were after him for selling dope? A.—I didn't know that the Federal authorities were after him. She gave me a bottle which she said the doctor had given her. She told me to take it back to the office; that she didn't want it about the hotel. She said nothing about dope.

Q.—Did Mrs. Wilbur say anything to you about inquiries being made of her regarding Dr. Homer's selling dope? A.—No.

Q.—Have you said to anybody anywhere that Mrs. Wilbur told you that she had been bothered by inquiries as to whether Dr. Homer had prescribed or given her dope? A.—She told me to tell Dr. Homer about her having a fall and that she was in bed. She didn't say that Dr. Homer had caused the fall.

Q.—Did Dr. Homer ever tell you she had had him arrested? A.—I read it in the paper.

GEN. CROWDER TELLS WHO MUST WORK OR FIGHT

Baseball Players of Draft Age Come Under Provost's New Ruling

is not known. It is understood several baseball magnates have made representations to the President that ball players should not be covered by the "work or fight" order, but his attitude on the subject has not been made known.

REGARDING SALES CLERKS.

In addition to the decision on sports and games, General Crowder also announced several other important rulings explanatory of the "work or fight order," prescribing what occupations or employments are non-productive.

Referring to sales clerks employed in stores and other mercantile establishments he held that the regulations do not cover store executives, managers, superintendents, nor the heads of such departments as accounting, financial, advertising, credit, purchasing, delivery, receiving and shipping.

Registered pharmacists employed in wholesale and retail drug stores are also exempted from the regulations, as well as traveling salesmen, buyers, delivery drivers, electricians, engineers, carpet layers, upholsterers and employes doing heavy work outside the usual duties of clerks.

However, "sales clerks and other clerks" include the clerical forces in the offices and in all departments of stores and mercantile establishments, both wholesale and retail.

CLUB COOKS EXEMPTED.

Managers, clerks, cooks and other employes in public places, including hotels and social clubs serving food and drink, are exempted by the regulations unless they are actually engaged in the serving of food and drink.

It is also held that persons engaged in domestic service are engaged in non-productive employment, but this does not include public or private chauffeurs, unless they are engaged in some other occupation or employment defined as non-productive.

BELLBOYS INCLUDED.

Bell boys and porters, unless such porters are engaged in heavy work, are included in the regulation providing that passenger elevator operators and attendants, door men, footmen, carriage openers and other attendants in clubs, hotels, stores, apartment houses, office buildings and bathhouses are engaged in non-productive occupations.

Local and district boards were instructed to consider cases of withdrawal of deferred classification and late order numbers "with sympathy and common sense." The regulations provide that they shall accept as a reasonable excuse for temporary idleness or for being engaged in non-productive occupation the following:

"Sickness, reasonable vacation, lack of reasonable opportunity for employment in any occupation outside of those described as non-productive, temporary absences from regular employment, and where there are compelling domestic circumstances that would not permit change of employment by the registrant without disproportionate hardship to his dependent."

U. S. TO HELP GET WORK.

In addition to the cases where reasonable excuses may be accepted for temporary idleness or for being engaged in non-productive occupation, local and district boards have authority to withhold or postpone action for a reasonable time in cases where it appears that the registrant, in good faith, is or has been, seeking productive employment, and that such reasonable postponement will enable him to secure such employment.

The United States employment service will assist registrants in securing work of a productive character. And registrant desiring such assistance will, upon application to his local board, be referred to the agent or local director of the employment service, and every local board will furnish such agent with a list of names and addresses of registrants who apply to them for information concerning employment. They will also furnish a list of names and addresses of registrants who have been notified to appear before the board.

"When it is determined that a person in a deferred classification is an idler or is engaged in a non-productive occupation or employment," said General Crowder, "the classification and order number of such person will be withdrawn, and he will be immediately inducted into the military service."

FUGITIVE PRISONER RECAPTURED IN MAINE

Belfast, Me., June 21.—Leroy A. Carter of Belfast, who escaped from the State prison while working on the State road between Camden and Lincolnville last night, was captured today between Rockport and Rockland. Carter was sentenced a year ago last April to serve not less than two nor more than four years in prison. He escaped with another prisoner, but both were captured.

SAVE COAL OR SUFFER, SAYS STORROW

"Our best coal mine is what we save," Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow told Governor McCall's committee of 100 today, at a special conference on the fuel problem, called at the State House. He declared that only by the most energetic conservation measures in this section can widespread distress be avoided.

"If New England wants its factories to continue operation we must save every pound of coal we can," he declared.

"People must light their furnace fires later than over this year, and keep the temperature in their stores and offices down this Winter. Acute suffering will result if we do not."

Mr. Storrow was the principal speaker at the meeting, though former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald asked three pertinent questions, one regarding the tug service of New England, another in regard to the wood supply, and third as to the operations of fishing companies, which, he charged, as guilty of almost unheard-of profiteering in this time of national crisis.

"The coal movement in New England is not only complex but its magnitude is enormous," said Mr. Storrow. "It means movement of 40,000,000 tons of coal over 4,700 miles of railroad.

"On April 25, we had in the New England service 235,000 tons of steamers; now we have 358,512 tons, and if that is kept in service we estimate that it will be sufficient.

"The steady movement of steam coal to New England is about 250,000 tons less for the last two months than for April and May a year ago.

"The all-rail movement is to bring up 1,250,000 tons a month more for the next four or five months. The domestic or anthracite situation is practically the same as the steam coal. We asked for 6,640,000 tons of anthracite, an increase of 17 per cent. over last year, because we knew our reserves were completely exhausted. We have been allotted 6,272,000 tons, an increase of 11 per cent., which is a small increase considering the state of the reserves.

"The general coal situation has been improved during the last two months. The shortage last winter was due to transportation. Today the shortage is in labor.

Former Mayor Fitzgerald thought that in view of the shortage of tugs twenty large corporations should have subscribed $100,000 each, to buy twenty tugs. Mr. Storrow replied that the tug situation was pretty well in hand because the New England district had been allowed thirty-seven tugs and the coal administration knew each day where they are.

Mr. Fitzgerald then suggested cutting down wood on the lots owned by wealthy men near Boston. He said that a cord of wood now costs $15. The coal situation along the South Shore is extremely serious, he said for not a pound of coal is to be had. He was promised two carloads for Hull, but they have not shown up.

He then charged outrageous profiteering on the part of the fishing companies.

"Why is it," he said, "that the food administration, which has done so well in keeping flour and sugar prices down, can't keep down the price of fish? Millions are being made in the fishing business; it is profiteering. The fishing companies are making 200 to 250 per cent.

"Haddock, the cheapest fish there is, is selling for 18 cents a pound."

He suggested that a committee headed by Storrow go to Washington to see the twelve New England Senators, and to get their aid in the coal situation.

The meeting adjourned with a vote of confidence in Mr. Storrow's work.

American Readers to Help Pick Winners in $5,000 Song Contest

THE Hearst papers would like to see some splendid patriotic songs written to express the inspiring spirit of America in this great war.

To stimulate the song writers of the country to turn their talents in this patriotic direction, the Hearst papers offer FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN PRIZES for the best songs submitted to them, the $5,000 to be divided as follows: For the best song, to be selected by popular vote, $2,000; for the popular song which stands second in the poll, $1,000; for the third on the list when the ballots are counted, $500; for the fourth on the list when the ballots are counted, $250, and $100 each for the next ten in the voting.

A competent committee will select fifteen of the best songs and these will be published in sheet music form in the Hearst papers. The millions of readers of the Hearst papers will see and sing and play these songs, and then by their verdict determine which of the fifteen deserve the first prize, which the second, and so forth.

The song writers will retain all rights to their songs except the right of publication in the Hearst papers. The object of these prizes is not to secure the rights to these songs, but to stimulate the writing of patriotic songs of the highest order and to facilitate the distribution of these inspiring words and music scores among the millions of readers of the Hearst publications in order to arouse their patriotism to the highest pitch.

"I care not who makes the laws of a nation, if I can but make the songs," said Andrew Fletcher of Saltoun in a letter to the Marquis of Montrose, the Earl of Rothes.

THE HEARST PAPERS HAVE HELPED THEIR READERS MAKE THE LAWS OF THE NATION AND NOW WISH TO HELP THEM MAKE THE SONGS OF THE NATION.

ARMY AND NAVY AMERICAN

DEMOCRACY — BOSTON, FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1918. — LIBERTY

BAND LEADER AT DEVENS IS PROMOTED

Albert G. Stoessel Commissioned as Lieut.—First Musician to Be Advanced

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, June 20.—Albert G. Stoessel, leader of the Boston Regiment band, is the first of the band leaders at this cantonment to be commissioned a second Lieutenant under the new table of organization. He is a talented musician and was drafted in Cambridge as he was about to accept a position as concert director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. The Boston band is one of the best in the cantonment and its success is largely due to Stoessel's efforts. Several of the other band leaders have passed their preliminary examination for commissions and the majority of them are expected to be awarded the gold bar within a week. Most of the bands have been brought up to their full complement and their work is showing a decided improvement under the supervision of Director Modest Alloo.

The task of segregating all of the soldiers in the cantonment found unfit for overseas duty into one battalion was started today. The new outfit is to be known as a development battalion and will be made up principally of men suffering from physical or mental defects that army surgeons have pronounced curable. They are to be subjected to a special course of training which the officials here hope will eventually make them fit for military duty in France.

The new battalion will be commanded by Captain Alexander Smart, who soldiered in the regular army and who was formerly attached to the 302d Infantry Regiment here. Lieutenant-Colonel Wilbur A. McDaniel is president of a new courtmartial made up of officers of the Depot Brigade, who will sit upon all cases that are brought up for trial in the cantonment in the future. The judge-advocate of the court is Lieutenant James A. Watters of Newton Centre, and the assistant judge-advocate, Lieutenant John W. Black, Jr., of Gloucester, who just married Miss Doris Merchant of the same city.

The 519th and 520th engineers, the colored service battalions, are undergoing a shake-up. All of the negroes in the 519th battalion who are not up to the standard are being transferred to the 520th battalion, and their places are being filled by picked men selected from the 520th battalion. When the transfer is completed the 519th battalion will be one of the best organizations of its kind in the country.

EDITORIAL.

The development battalion that has been started at Camp Devens is unique. Its one object is to make new men out of those declared unfit for military service and the training program in many ways is similar to that of a sanatorium.

The idea is an excellent one and if it works out as it is intended to work out it will be well worth the time and effort put into it. The men destined for this organization are suffering from defects that are curable and in many cases these defects might have been cured by the men themselves if they took the trouble to do it before they were drafted into the army.

Under the new system they will be compelled to help themselves, for they will be grouped into classes according to their ailments and follow courses of training prescribed by experts. The battalion will be a human reclamation depot conducted in accordance with the army slogan, "Throw nothing away."

LIEUT. NELSON IS VERY POPULAR OFFICER

Has Charge of Workshops at Receiving Ship—In Navy Service 20 Years

By S. HARRY FERRIS

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, June 21.—If a vote were taken among the sailors to select the most popular officer on the ship there is no doubt that among the names very near the top of the list would be that of Lieutenant D. W. Nelson.

Lieutenant Nelson is something of an old salt. He began his career in the navy twenty years ago and has since seen service on many different ships in all quarters of the world.

His varied experience has especially fitted him for the duties of his present position in which he is responsible for all that pertains to the physical condition of the ship. He is also in general charge of all of the workshops.

The latter work alone is no mean assignment, for the mechanical department includes the plant in which the Pier-E-Scope is published and all of the printing for the First Naval District is done, a paint shop, carpenter shop, armory, repair shop, and the electrical section, in which the extensive lighting, cooking and power circuits and all of the apparatus used on them is looked after.

Many invitations for the sailors to participate in social affairs of various individuals and organizations are received on board the ship. Most of these, of course, are from responsible people with whom it would be in every way desirable for the tars to associate. Now and then, however, one is received that it would not be advisable to ask the men to accept. To separate the sheep from the goats has been a troublesome matter in the past.

YEOWOMEN OUT FOR NAVY DAY HONORS

One week from tomorrow, Saturday, June 29, is navy day. It will be a big day on the Charles River.

The swimming event, the biggest ever undertaken in this country, is sure to bring thousands of Greater Bostonians sailors to see the battle for supremacy in their own element.

After more than two weeks training the yeowomen are sure to put up a splendid race against their fellow sailors, the yeomen.

In all, the navy yard has mastered together nine full crews and are in good shape for the events. Each crew is taking advantage of every moment of spare time to train in the basin for the contest.

Another number that will thrill all lovers of water events is the sailing race. In this race all boats will have regulation navy rig. A crew from East Station of the First Naval District will contest in this race. This will give the bluecoats a chance to demonstrate which crew is composed of the sturdiest seamen. It will be the first time in a number of years that sailing boats have been seen on the Charles.

Lovers of baseball will also have their chance during the day. A number of passes for both the Red Sox and Braves games will be distributed in a novel fashion. There will be a bombing exhibition in which paper bombs which contain passes to the games will be showered on the heads of the spectators along the esplanade. Lieutenant Godfrey Cabot, U. S. N. R. F., will drop the bombs from his aeroplane, the Lark, far above the clouds.

The wherry race for yeowomen has attracted much attention and the sailors are looking forward to some funny spills. The girls, however, say the blue coats will be disappointed.

Much interest is being shown all over New England by sailors and civilians alike. Only today a card was received at the office of the AMERICAN from John Norton of the U. S. C. G. Academy asking for information about entry blanks for the swimming races.

THRIFT STAMPS GO WITH EACH TICKET

The Pop of Pop concerts announced for Sunday evening at Symphony Hall which gives every one in Greater Boston a chance to hear the wonderful orchestra free and at the same time help win the war, will mark the big Thrift Steamp night at the June drive for a million pledges to the War Savings Stamps.

Buy a ticket, exchange the ticket for a Thrift Stamp when you reach the door. The Thrift Stamp is yours and the enjoyable concert is really heard free. The Thrift Stamps you receive will depend on the price that you pay for your ticket. One Thrift Stamp will be given for a 25-cent seat and the others paid accordingly.

"Every one has been wonderful," said Robert S. Weeks, of the War Savings Stamps committee. "The whole thing is free and it is offering a wonderful opportunity to every one in Boston. They hear this 15-piece orchestra absolutely free, go home with a Thrift Stamp or two, and have the feeling that they are doing something for Uncle Sam.

"The orchestra has given its service free. Major Henry L. Higginson has donated his hall, and the entire management has been placed at our disposal. The tickets will be placed on sale today. No one in Boston should delay in securing one."

Aglae Jacchia, conductor of the orchestra for Sunday evening, is greatly interested in the concert and is doing everything to make it as enjoyable as possible. The programme will be announced later. Arrangements have been made to play all the national airs of the Allied countries.

3,000 Red Cross Pigs Are Soon to Go to Market

By International News Service.

Washington, June 21.—Three thousand Red Cross pigs will soon go to market and none will stay at home.

The department of agriculture announces that the 2,000 representant the output of the Red Cross pig club of Carroll County, Missouri. They will be shipped to the St. Louis market in September and this will mean more pork for the country, more money for Carroll County and an estimated contribution of $10,000 for the Red Cross.

The club was organized last Fall by O. F. Turner, county agent, who asked 2,500 people to raise a pig to be known as the Red Cross pig. Although the county has only 1,600 registered voters, 3,000 persons answered the call.

'I Bathe You in Kisses,' Wrote Defendant in $50,000 Suit

By International News Service.

New York, June 21.—"I bathe you in kisses, Frances, sweetest of women," was one of the phrases in a letter which Private Guy A. Reynolds of the American army produced as having been written by Paul H. Hilken of Baltimore to Mrs. Reynolds. The letter was an exhibit in the $50,000 alienation suit which was settled out of court.

Mrs. Reynolds was Miss Frances Billings, daughter of William P. Billings, a Wilkesbarre, Pa., banker. Reynolds, Billings' chauffeur, eloped with the girl in 1912 and separated from her in 1916, after Hilken entered her life.

The letter also said: "The talk by phone only added fuel to the flames. How I long to have my arms around you."

URGES LAWS TO PROTECT HEALTH OF WORKERS

The employment of minors between the ages of fourteen and sixteen is on the increase in Boston, according to statements made public by Anna M. Stadeler, secretary of the Massachusetts Committee on Health in Industry.

"There are 8,000 employed in Boston, showing an increase of 2,000 in ten months from January 1 to November 1, 1917.

"There are over 50,000 minors between the ages of fourteen and sixteen employed in Massachusetts. If we sap or exhaust the vitality of our undeveloped boys and girls of today we shall surely pay for it in physical, mental and moral weaklings a few years hence unless they are guarded by protective laws.

"Regarding the health of these minors, they should be given a thorough medical examination before employment."

Every Dollar Is Worth 100 Cents at Kennedy's

To be sure, a dollar is a dollar wherever you go, but there's a big difference in what it will buy. It brings you more in one place than it does in another. And it's what a dollar buys, rather than the dollar itself, that's important.

One dissimilarity between this store and a lot of others is that no part of the price you pay here is wasted on old-fogy methods or goes towards maintaining a lot of expensive but useless fol-de-rols.

In other words, you get more actual clothing value per dollar of the price in this Live Store than anywhere else, and this greater value-giving is what has built our business so big and keeps it growing so fast.

The actual scarcity of good clothing is becoming quite noticeable in many places, but we are showing a stock as large and a variety as wide as in normal times.

KOPIN AND MOHR IN C. A. C. RING TONIGHT

Battling Kopin of Jamestown, N. Y., and Walter Mohr of Brooklyn, are in fine fettle for their return set-to tonight at the Commercial A. C.

Gosh! but that was some fight they put up last week. Kopin, who was an unknown quantity in Boston, carried the battle to Mohr every inch of the way. Mohr, understand, didn't retreat, but just stood and swapped with Kopin from beginning to end. Mohr has his alibi—a good one at that—he only had 24 hours' notice to get in trim and make train connections, and promises to even up the series tonight. The boys are charter members of the Aggressive Mittmen's League.

Two six-rounders and a semi-final at eight rounds complete the card. Johnny Barry, of Somerville, faces a tough one, from all accounts, in Sailor Butler in the semi-final. Butler has met Kid Julian, Rocky Kansas and other stiff ones.

Young Viera of New Bedford, who made easy work of Young Bruno recently, takes on Kid Lee of Chelsea, in one six-round affair, and Mickey Snyder of Roxbury, and Johnny Fallon of Lawrence, will settle their difference in the curtain-raiser.

Snyder and Fallon put up a corking bout at the Armory A. A. last week, with honors even.

CARD AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

Main event: Battling Kopin of Jamestown, N. Y., vs. Walter Mohr of Brooklyn, twelve rounds.

Semi-final: Johnny Emery of Somerville vs. Sailor Butler of Rochester, N. Y., eight rounds.

Second preliminary: Young Viera of New Bedford vs. Kid Lee of Chelsea, six rounds.

Referee: Larry Cossey.

FIELDER JONES IS LAUDED BY FULLERTON

Retired St. Louis Chieftian Great Student of Game—Began Career With Brooklyn

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Fielder Jones is done. He has quit and baseball has lost one of the finest characters and one of the greatest generals it ever produced.

Jones quits because, like so many other managers, the game was getting on his nerves and the strain of handling the team was more than he could endure.

He is a rich man, not dependent upon baseball for a living; in fact, came back this Spring under protest and only because it was represented to him that the Browns could not succeed without him.

Now he believes that the team would do as well, or better, without him than with him, and he is going back to his timber properties in Oregon.

Jones was the closest student of baseball and the greatest general I ever have known. Given a team, even of mediocre players, who would understand and obey all his orders, and that team would be either a champion or close to it.

A BASEBALL GENIUS.

His genius for baseball was wonderful, but he never seemed to have patience with players who could not grasp a situation and go through with the orders he handed out.

He was high strung, nervous and petulant at times, yet one of the most loyal fellows that ever lived; loyal to his men, to his friends and to the club. He wanted to win. The one thing he would not endure was any hint of dishonesty or any trace of loafing.

Ballplayers and others will tell you that Jones' great success when he took a third rate ball club and won a World's Championship with it was that he had Ed Walsh, and often Jones is bitterly criticised, by players and others who do not understand the situation, for "ruining" Walsh as a pitcher.

Walsh pitched in sixty-six games in one season under Jones and the player argument is that Jones worked Walsh to death.

The fact is that Jones was constantly striving to save Walsh and that had it not been for Jones the Big Moose would have been in many more games than he was.

CREDIT FOR McHALE.

Walsh was an iron-man. He wanted to pitch every day and he was hurt if not permitted to do so. He pitched fewer games that record breaking season, for instance, than Marty McHale pitched one year in the International.

McHale worked in seventy-seven games, lost fifteen and in the fifteen he lost the opposing teams averaged under two and a half runs per game.

Walsh was not hurt by working so often. He injured his pitching arm while playing tennis with the Rev. Father Joe Quill, who, by the way, was one of the best catchers that ever wore a mask before he went into the priesthood.

Walsh was joking and he threw a ball sidearm, carelessly and a muscle slipped out of place in his shoulder. He worked very hard trying to get the arm back into condition and learned to pitch his apitball side arm, but he was done as a great pitcher.

Probably the greatest bit of generalship Jones put over was in a game between the White Sox and Browns late in the season in which the White Sox won their World's pennant. The game was a desperately contested one and both managers were throwing in the recruits and reserves in an effort to win.

FINE BIT OF STRATEGY.

Jones had used four pitchers, for various reasons, and Frank Smith was on the slab with two strikes and two balls on the batter. Jones called Walsh from the warming-up pen, told him to go in and pitch one apitball to the batter.

Walsh went in the slab, pitched one fast-breaking apitball, and finished striking out the batter, leaving a runner still perched on third.

St. Louis at once rushed a left-handed batter to the plate and Jones took Walsh out after he had pitched that one ball and sent Doc White in to pitch against the left-handed batter, and White struck him out. The next batter filed out and eventually Chicago won the game, after Jones had used seven pitchers.

THE BRAND of bouts that have been staged in Boston the past few weeks will bring the members back again, which will bring joy to the promoters. SOX OUT TO EVEN UP SERIES

Barrows Declares Team Due to Show Some Real Ball Against the Mackmen

By NICK FLATLEY.

Those surprising Athletics and the Red Sox engaged in another joust at the Fenway ball yard to day, with Manager Barrow anxious to even up the series, and keep the team as far away from the Athletics as possible. The race is gradually tightening up in the league, and the stage has arrived where every game counts as a whole lot.

Shaking off the Mackmen is a very tough proposition however. The team is getting good hitting and fielding in splendid style. For instance, the Red Sox leaders have over a score in one of the departments of baseball during the present series. For instance, also, the Mackmen have already won more games from the box this year than far than they did in the last couple of seasons combined.

NO + DUE TO GET GOING.

C. Mack contends that if he hadn't been hurt by the draft he would be right up there, and from the looks of things he has the right idea. But he has his old knack of digging up players where none were before, and has a good shot at first division berth before the campaign concludes.

The Red Sox, however, are due to come out of their slump and do a bit of consecutive hitting. And as Carl Mays, who shapes up as the most reliable of the Barrow flingers, was on the job. So perhaps, this is the day for the reform.

There was a time, say last year for instance when getting an even break with the Athletics in a double-header was considered as bad as a double defeat.

That time is no more, however. The Mackmen look like a pretty good ball club this year season, and the Red Sox are very thankful to split a pair of shut outs yesterday.

The Mackerels took the first game from Sam Jones because Tillie Walker slammed a homer over his favorite cigarette sign on the left field barrier in the last chapter

Shannon was on at the time, so the count of the affair was 2 to 0 Vean Gregg was responsible for the nothing part of it, holding his one-time team mates to three little safeties

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL BOOKED FOR BIKE FANS

At other double feature bill will be staged at the Revere Beach track tomorrow evening. It is under a special permit between Mile powers and Francesco Verri and a twenty-five mile motor-paced race with Carman Corey and Slater leading the machines.

The sprint match is one of the many Manager Butler hopes to stage at the beach oval this season. In the motor-paced race Carman and Corey are matched up at inner own request, as the former thinks he has the number of the coast star, while the latter is anxious to show the New Yorker he is all that is claimed for him. Upset having posed him as the 1918 motor paced champion.

Suter, the third man in the race, is going good and he is to show with his rivals the way in The regular card of amateur and professional events will be run off

Corbett's Corner

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Jack Johnson rose to the heavyweight championship of the world after a harder struggle to gain recognition than any other fighter ever has experienced. The giant negro, feeling that he had in him the ability to dethrone the title holder, spent a fortune and years of effort in attempting to force Tommy Burns into a match with him

Johnson was a "battle royal" performer in Galveston until George Siler, the famous referee, reached in him some exceptional prize ring ability.

He influenced a promoter to race the negro in Chicago in 1900, during the next year or so Johnson fought with fair success and then he tackled Joe Choynski in Galveston in 1901

Choynski scored a knockout over the negro in the third round but it was that very battle which established the greatness of Johnson.

He put up such a fine struggle as a novice that the fans came to feel that with but a few more years of seasoning he would be a wonder. Choynski took him in charge for a while and taught him many ring tricks.

Through 1902 and 1903 Johnson fought more than a score of battles Practically every one resulted in a decisive victory for him His fame began to spread and he became recognized as the greatest battler among the negroes

CHALLENGED FOR TITLE.

In 1904, when Jeffries was on the point of retiring, Johnson hurled a challenge at him But Jeffries ignored him. In 1905 Jeffries quit the ring and a few months later awarded his title to Marvin Hart because Hart had knocked out Jack Root in a bout which Jeffries had refereed Johnson challenged Hart but the latter paid no attention to him.

Tommy Burns, by defeating Hart in a twenty-round decision battle in Los Angeles in 1906, became recognized as the technical champion. At once Johnson bombarded Burns with challenges—but without success.

Burns fought some battles in this country, and then left for Europe. While there he whipped the best English warriors and became the outstanding heavyweight among the white men.

Johnson pursued Burns to London, and spite by every means in his command, to force Burns into a match. But Burns continued to ignore him.

One morning Johnson awoke to learn that Burns had slipped away to Australia. Johnson determined to follow him, even though it seemed a barren hope that Burns ever would meet him.

Johnson by that time had absolute faith in his own prowess, felt confident that he could force Burns into a match with him he could whip him.

WENT BROKE TO GET BOUT.

And yet the chance of getting Burns to battle with him seemed absolutely remote But Johnson had tenacity of the bulldog variety and took the last dollar of his in the world he bought a ticket and sailed away for Australia.

When the negro arrived in the Antipodes, Burns, for a time, put on heir of his existence. But Hugh McIntosh, the great Australian fight promoter, having come to feel that a match between Johnson and Burns perhaps would result in drawing the biggest gate that Australia ever had known in its entire pugilistic history, decided to match them if possible

So McIntosh went to Burns in an effort to sign him up. At first Burns balked, but later when McIntosh increased his first offer to the then wonderful sum of $30,000, win, lose or draw, Burns succumbed to the oratory of McIntosh and agreed to fight.

The promoter had no trouble in signing up Johnson, even though he offered the negro only $6,000, no matter how the battle terminated

WOULD FIGHT FOR NOTHING.

Afterward Johnson said:

"I would have fought Burns for nothing if McIntosh had felt that way about it. I wanted to get a fight with Burns because I felt I could beat him and that through victory I would be at the top of the heavyweights and then would be in a position to make a lot of money

"But when McIntosh offered me $6,000 it seemed as if he was going to give me all the money in the world. At that time I had about $10 in my pocket—and I think I owed that to some friend of mine."

The Johnson-Burns battle, fought on December 26, 1908, stands out as one of the most terrific ever staged in Australia and the "realz" that it drew was of record-smashing proportions.

(Mr. Corbett's story which appears in three columns tomorrow, will tell how Jack Johnson won the technical heavyweight championship of the world from Tommy Burns.)

BRAVES TO START NEW CLIMB TO TOP

Stallings Somewhat Peeved Over Loss of Even One Game to the Phillies

Philadelphia, June 21.—But for Pat Ragan's unsteadiness in the opening round of the afterpiece between the Braves and Phils, on the Huntington street lawn, George Stallings' hustling herd would have made a clean sweep

Art Nehf started by banging the verdict, in ten innings, 6-4. Ragan was sent against the Morans in the second contest Right off the reel he passed four batters, and, helped along by two hits, five runs bloomed.

The big cloister was the scene of the Phils' rallying in the second show, as Benny Kauff rushed to Ragan's rescue, cleverly applied the brass the rest of the route. But the bunch proved just useless enough

MARC GAME FIGHT.

The Braves kept jogging away, and while putting up a game performance were one to the call when the twenty seventh demise took place

Luderus and Stock made glaring errors in the opener, which permitted the Braves to win, where by rights Breadenaux was entitled to the verdict over Nehf The Phils had a lead of two when the visitors went up in the eighth Two were down when Stock made a two-base wild heave on Wickland. Rod Smith, Konetchy and Jacklitsch followed with singles and the tally was tied up.

Powell opened the tenth with a single. Wilson and Daniel and reached third while his stuffed partner pounded on Luderus' heave far into right field. Red Smith was there with a long outfield hoist and Wickland came in.

WALKS FIRST THREE.

Stallings kept Ragan in a trifle too long in the second frolic. The Hyphenan-Hispano masked Bancroft, Williams and Stock in order and Luderus popped sent the first two named over Cravath smashed deep to Rehg and Stock registered. Mousel was easy, but Schupfhan and Adams kept up the cannonading and the round was finally over with five runs in the Moran locker

Hearn relieved Ragan after the ninth first canto and did a corking good job. Had Danny started it's a pipe the Braves would have won. The tribe kept pecking away at Mule Watson and finally was only bested, 5-4.

ART NEHF IN HUB AND READY FOR NEW YORKS

Art Nehf, Braves' crack southpaw, reached Boston this morning from Philadelphia, having been allowed to come home in advance of the team by Manager Stallings as a result of his victory in the first game of yesterday's twin bill. The Giants open at Braves Field next Monday and the chances are Nehf will be sent against the Mcgraw clan.

College Girl Charmers Win Laurels as Farmers

Barnard Students Prove Their Patriotism and Improve Their Health by Work in the Open

Life on a farm isn't all work, as this picture shows. The college girls are resting

Every one of the company furnishes evidence of the beneficial effects of their healthful outdoor occupation

DAY by day the number of applicants for farm labor by college girls and other young women seeking to aid Uncle Sam to win the war is increasing.

Through the country thousands of girls are helping out the farmers, and before harvest time their efforts and ability will have made them a valuable economic factor.

Moreover, the open air work is paying big dividends in health to the farmerettes and they are earning money besides.

At Bedford Hills, N. Y., where the Women's Agricultural Camp is located, the girls receive $2.00 a day from the farmers and pay $1.50 to the camp. They receive excellent meals and lodgings and are assured of comfort and protection.

One of the striking developments of the farmerette experiment is the aptitude of the women and girls for the work, as attested by the praise of the farmer employers.

It is expected that before long 100,000 girls and women will be enlisted in this vital work, each doing her bit for her country.

And here the farmerettes are hard at work in a kitchen garden at Bedford Hills.

A NEW AND ABSORBING SERIAL

Elizabeth Is Startled by the Sudden Opening of a Blind While Picking Flowers

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

ELIZABETH suspected that it was an actual relief to the good woman to have her out of the way. Mrs. Chapin had done her own work for so long that she was embarrassed by the presence of one accustomed to what the country dwellers termed "city ways."

Elizabeth was somewhat at a loss as to just how the table should be set. She tried to recall Mrs. Chapin's methods, but was obliged to resort to the kitchen for instructions. When at last the cloth was laid and the glass, china and silver arranged upon it according to Mrs. Chapin's directions, the girl made a request.

Elizabeth Anxious

"Couldn't I go out and get some of those lovely lilacs and put them in the middle of the table? There are some sprays that are almost out—and they are so pretty."

"Surely, dear," Mrs. Chapin agreed. "For pity's sake, don't ask me if you can do so and so! The farm is your brother's still, you know—even if Amos and me do live here and work it."

This kind creature was not party to her husband's scheme, the girl decided, as she went out into the yard to gather the lilacs.

The blossoms she sought were at the top of the bush, where the sun fell on them more directly than on those farther down. She had to stand on tiptoe to touch them, and even then could not grasp the stems.

Returning to the kitchen, she carried from there a wooden-bottomed chair. Mounting this, she broke off the sprays she wished, [illegible] to herself as she did so.

She heard a window blind on the second floor of the house open, and for an instant she stood motionless. She remembered that this was the corner of the house in which John Butler was lodged. He had probably thrown open the blind of his room to get more light, and must have seen her.

Was he watching her? She pretended to be busy with the flowers, but she felt waves of hot color flooding her neck and face. What a fool she was!

With an impatient movement she sprang down from the chair and hurried into the house.

Yes, John Butler stood there, and she saw that now he was not looking at her. Instead his eyes were fixed dreamily on the hills in the distance. But as she started to go back to the house he moved quickly and looked down, then leaned forward to see her more clearly.

IN an old country,
Far and far away,
A woman went a-weeping,
On a fresh Spring day.

A woman went a-weeping,
For she heard birds singing,
And under the hill
There was new grass springing.

"He loved the new grass,
And all the birds," she said;
"He loved the sparrows,
And threw them bread.
How can I live,
And my own lad dead?"

To know that he waited
In God's own town
Was little comfort to her
Slowly down

The road to the village,
With her sobs to smother,
All on a Spring day
Went Mary, His Mother.

Now o'er a dark world
War holds sway,
And there is sound of sobbing
This fresh Spring day.

To all weeping mothers
She bends low,
Stretches out her hands to them
And says, "I know."

SCION OF WEALTH ENROLLS FOR FARM WORK

Dave Father Piece of His Mind and Was Told to Earn Own Living

By THOMAS F. PHELAN,
United States Farm Labor Agent.

A millionaire's son showed the stuff he is made of when he called at the AMERICAN'S branch labor office of the United States Employment Service, No. 53 Canal street, Boston, and signed up for a farm laborer's job. The young man is married, has several children, and forfeited his rights to his father's money because he wedded the young woman with whom he fell in love.

"But dad's a good scout," said the scion of wealth to the AMERICAN representative. "He said he had faith in me, that I could make good at anything I set out to do. His twitted me about earning my own living. He said he regretted the fact I didn't wed into money and take a young woman of my own station in life. And say, that got my goat, as the saying goes, and I hurled this salient piece of advice at him:

"'There's more true honor in one tanned-browned hand,
Rough with the grimy work of honest toil,
Than all the glove-masked talons in the land,
Where lurk the coils for virtue's spoil.'"

"That was the straw which broke the camel's back, dad got mad, gave me a piece of advice, warned me that I was treading on dangerous ground, and notified me that hereafter I was to earn my own living. And I'm the boy that can do it; I'm going to toil in the sweat of my face, because I'm above the draft age, and in that way I'll do my bit for the country and assist Uncle Sam in winning the war. I'm a gamester, and before my day hears from me again, I'll have a substantial bank account of my own."

William A. McCarthy, well known in Worcester labor circles, has been appointed field examiner in Massachusetts for the Federal Employment Service. He will take up his duties Monday.

Every rural telephone company in the State of Iowa, 881 in all, has been asked by Secretary of Labor Wilson to co-operate with the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor in assisting farmers of that State to harvest their Spring wheat.

Similar requests are now being sent to the rural phone companies in Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, States where the wheat crop promises a bumper harvest if farm labor in sufficient quantities can be secured for the cutting season.

The daughter of John Redmond, whose Uncle "Willie" died on the battlefields of France and one of whose cousins is an officer in the service of the King, discusses the Cause of Ireland from a woman's point of view and pleads for the formation of a "Pianic League of Good Will." Friends of democracy everywhere will find Miss Redmond's article inspiring.

Miss Frick, of Pride's Crossing and Pittsburgh, returned to America a day or two ago after serving six months among the refugees in France as one of the workers of the Department of Civilian Relief of the American Red Cross. "I do not want to say a word about my own poor labors," she says, "but I shall tell gladly of the triumphs of this single department of the Red Cross."

Miss Morgan, a gifted member of the staff, offers the first of a series of articles describing in detail the war time activities of the women of Massachusetts. We hope every man in New England will read this article. It should inspire the men to plunge on War Savings Stamps.

Walter Humphreys, registrar, recorder and secretary-treasurer of the Technology Alumni Association, writes of the "Thirty-Five War Activities of Tech."

A four-page section of news-in-pictures? To be sure! More songs to send the sailors and soldiers? Yes, indeed, including the words and music (complete) of "Good-By, Dixie Land."

And a smile, anywhere?

PRIVATE GOODWIN NOT SENTENCED TO 5 YEARS

Private Otto Goodwin, Medical Department, 315th Infantry, N. A., at Camp Meade, Maryland, was not sentenced to Fort Leavenworth for five years at hard labor, for desertion and for getting leave of absence by falsely stating that he was to be married, as erroneously announced in the AMERICAN of a recent date.

He was found guilty of absence without leave, instead of desertion, and of the charges of "fraudulently stating himself in the uniform of a commissioned officer, Medical Corps, United States Army," and of making false statements to Captain Harrison.

Goodwin was given a sentence of six months at hard labor, without confinement, at Camp Meade, on these charges.

DR. F. C. RICHARDSON DIES AT DUXBURY

Professor Frank C. Richardson, professor of nervous diseases at the Boston University School of Medicine, is dead at the Duxbury Summer residence of Dr. Nathaniel Emerson of Boston. Dr. Richardson had been ill for several months and in the early Spring went to Duxbury, thinking the change would enable him to regain his health.

He was graduated from the Boston University School of Medicine and later studied at Vienna universities.

MALDEN WOMAN ASKS $3,000 FOR INJURIES

Esther Horwitz of Boston has been sued for $3,000 by Dora Cooperstein of Malden. The latter alleges that on March 12, 1918, while walking in front of the defendant's property at No. 419 Cross street, Malden, she slipped on some snow and ice and was severely injured.

U.S. FILLS WHEAT PROMISE TO ALLIES

By International News Service.

Washington, June 21.—Rumors that the Chinese wheat pit would soon resume operations were emphatically denied today by officials of the Food Administration. Arrival at local markets of the first of the new crop from Virginia had given rise to persistent reports that the pit was about to be revived.

"Emphatically no; the wheat pit will not reopen," said an official, speaking for Mr. Hoover.

Shipments of wheat to our allies will cease temporarily within the next ten days, it was said today. Our promised allotment for this year's crop to the fighting forces has been virtually kept, and with a small movement before the end of the month every bushel of wheat promised will have left our shores. Nearly 150 million bushels of wheat went across, it was learned. Shipments of the new crop begin in September.

Great praise was today given the American housewife who, through co-operating in the conservation measures of the Food Administration made possible the enormous movement of wheat to our allies. "It was the women of America who saved the situation," said administration officials.

HOW FARE LIMITS WILL AFFECT QUINCY

Diagram showing general plan which Bay State road has adopted all over its system to increase its fares. A traffic centre is established in thirteen cities.

LIFT OFF CORNS FREEZONE IS MAGIC

Costs few cents! Sore, touchy corns lift right off with fingers. No pain!

Drop a little Freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. It doesn't hurt one bit. Yes, magic!

Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and callouses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the much talked of ether discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

ZONE SYSTEM IN EFFECT MONDAY

Bay State Street Railway's New Fare Schedule Operates from Traffic Centre

The new fare system of the Bay State Street Railway, effective at 2:01 o'clock next Monday morning, creates a city zone in the larger cities, including the thickly-settled part of the city. The lines radiating beyond this are sub-divided into zones approximately one mile in length.

A "traffic centre" is established in Malden, Melrose, Lynn, Salem, Peabody, Beverly, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Quincy, Brockton, Taunton and Fall River.

The cash fare in a city zone is 6 cents with transfer to cars on connecting routes going in the same general direction. There are also "city tickets" and "mid-day tickets" sold for reduced rates under special conditions.

Sample trips in Quincy district, the fares and the reasons therefore, as based on the new sube system, are as follows:

A to B to G—Eight-cent cash fare, as inside City Zone. Or for a five-cent ticket, sold in strips of six tickets for thirty cents, good at any time, but no transfer. Or for a "Mid-day City Ticket" at four and one-sixth cents each, sold in strips of six for twenty-five cents, good from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Mondays to Fridays, inclusive, and from 9 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Saturdays (Sundays and legal holidays excepted). No transfers.

A to B—Eight-cent cash fare, as between suburban zone limit and point within city zone limit. Or for a suburban ticket, good any time and sold seven for 50 cents, no transfer. Or for a "mid-day suburban ticket," sold four for 25 cents, good from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Mondays to Fridays, inclusive, and from 9 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Saturdays (Sundays and legal holidays excepted).

A to B to G—Eight-cent cash fare, with free transfer at B.

B to E or G to E, via A—Ten-cent cash fare, composed of six cents within the City Zone and four cents within or to limit of Suburban Zone.

B to C or B to D—Twelve-cent cash fare, composed of two cents per Zone for two Zones (second Mileage Zone Suburban Zone), six cents within City Zone and two cents more within or to limit of Suburban Zone.

Corruption Within Government a Menace

Attorney-General Gregory Should Be Encouraged in His Crusade Against Graffing War Goods Contractors

The investigation which the Department of Justice is now making with respect to corruption in obtaining government contracts is a most important effort in the great labor of winning the war. Its importance goes even beyond its contribution to winning the war.

President Wilson has phrased our object in this great struggle as a determination to make the world safe for democracy. There is nothing so unsafe for democracy as corruption in a democracy. All the enemy's horses and all the enemy's men never can be so dangerous to democracy as corruption within the government. That is why private ownership of our public utilities like our railroads, our street railways, our gas and electric light companies is so dangerous to a democracy, so dangerous to the continuance of this democratic republic. The privately operated public utility corporations are the great source of corruption in this country, with their lobbyists and their corruption of public servants, of the newspapers, and of every instrumentality of public influence.

Attorney-General Gregory is a democrat in the highest and best sense of that word. He is an incorruptible and fearless man, whose influence in the Cabinet has been constantly on the side of democracy. He is in this campaign to stamp out corruption in the government. He thus reassures our people that the tremendous taxes which they are paying are going to the support of the war and not to the support of grafters.

This is less a rich man's war than any war that we have fought in a hundred years. Under the control of the Republican party the conduct of the Spanish War was a scandal to high heaven. So difficult indeed is it to keep bribery and corruption out of the transactions of the government during a war, especially out of those transactions which are not spectacular and, therefore, do not arrest public attention, that even under Lincoln during the Civil War corruption ran amuck. So great and general was it that Stanton, the Secretary of War, almost gave up in despair the attempt to stop it. Quite recently a representative of the AMERICAN met a prominent American business man in Washington who described his experience as a manufacturer during the Civil War. He was a personal friend of Secretary Stanton. He had made a bid on certain government supplies. The inspector had rejected his samples in favor of the samples of his competitor. He went down to the storehouse and examined his own samples and those of his competitor. He found, with the greatest indignation, that his own rejected samples were incomparably superior to the accepted samples of his competitor. Thereupon he went to Secretary Stanton and asked him personally to go to the warehouse with him and examine those samples, telling him that the inspector had been guilty of such partiality as was inconsistent with honesty. Secretary Stanton shook his head wearily and said, "I am too busy to go, but I will send a personal representative to make the examination." Then putting his hand on his friend's shoulder, the Secretary continued with a voice that was filled with emotion, "I have no doubt that you are right. Everybody doing business with the government seems to think that it is a legitimate prey, and it seems almost impossible to get government representatives who will withstand the temptation." His friend asked if he was not going to attempt to punish the inspector, and Secretary Stanton said, "No, not at present, the evil is too general." He then took from his desk a report of the findings of an investigation into the failure of General Banks' Red River Expedition and read parts of it. The findings indicated that an important contributing cause of the failure was the abandonment of their commands by Union officers in order to speculate in cotton with some British steamers lying in the harbor.

Such a condition in our present war is absolutely unimaginable. Before the outbreak of the war, at the very beginning of this administration, Secretary Daniels began his crusade against profiteering in government contracts for the navy. Secretary Baker continued the crusade, and it is a fact of which Americans ought to be just as proud as they are of the fighting ability of our soldiers, that our government is not only more efficient, but is cleaner with respect to corruption than it ever was before.

Everyone who can ought to help Attorney-General Gregory in his crusade to keep our government clean.

Attorney-General Gregory's reformation of the express company contract, approved by the railroad men under Director-General McAdoo, by the terms of which the express companies would have been allowed after the war to violate the anti-trust law, was a very wise performance. In this connection the AMERICAN would like to suggest to Mr. Gregory the necessity of overseeing, so far as he properly may, the very important contracts which are being made in the director-general's department. Mr. McAdoo is a very much overworked man. There has been thrust upon him more work than any man can do with the highest efficiency. He has been obliged to surround himself with railroad men whose graft has been the private operation of the railroads, and who would be more than human if they did not constantly manoeuvre to put the director-general, the government and the railroads in a position favorable to the return of the railroads to private control and operation, and therefore to the return to themselves of great power and great emoluments. And Director-General McAdoo himself would be more than human if despite his determination to steer a straight course he were not liable to be overreached occasionally by the men to whom he must give his confidence and through whom he must execute his plans. It is the duty of all departments of the government, and especially of the attorney-general, to help Mr. McAdoo carry his great load.

In Which the Noted Scientist Relates Some Human Interest Narratives of the Recent Eclipse, Telling How Various Spectators Were Thrilled by the Heavenly Spectacle

By Garrett P. Serviss

I TOOK two human views of the eclipse of the sun on Saturday evening, June 8. One was an inner view, revealing the effect on my own mind; the other was an external view, showing the various effects on people around me. Let me speak particularly of the latter.

The instruments of observation were a three-inch telescope and a pair of electricians' black-glass spectacles. The telescope served to throw on a white screen a magnified image of the sun, with the black globe of the moon apparently cutting a huge scallop that seemed to swing round as the sun sank lower, and that deepened until, at the maximum phase of the eclipse, in the latitude and longitude of New York, about sixty-eight one-hundredths of the sun's diameter was covered, and all that remained visible of the orb of day was a beautiful crescent, as if two-thirds of the solar disk had been cut off with a hand so steady and an eye so accurate that the concavity was as smooth and the curve as true as if struck with a compasspen, or stamped out with a circular die. Through the protecting glass what remained of the sun looked as white as snow, while the yawning chasm in its side was of a velvety blackness.

Human Emotions

The most effective observation for emotion and surprise was that with the naked eye, guarded by the simple interposition of the shield of dark glass. Seen through the telescope, or by projection of the image, the effect on the average "lay" mind seemed to be that of a kind of motion picture play, with a good deal of mechanism about it, resulting in a dimming of comprehension of the fact that it was nature's own show. But when only the wire-bowed spectacles were looped over the ears of the smiling bystander, whose anticipations had plainly been of a cynically indifferent sort, and he was faced sunward, the mocking smile disappeared immediately, and a half-suppressed exclamation revealed the instantaneous grip that the unwonted sight had fixed upon him. There was the undoubted sun in the sky with two-thirds of its round face bitten out, and some ancestral echo, vibrating down the long corridors of time, produced a momentary shiver of the beholder's nerves, reminiscent of the days when eclipses arrested the march of armies, stopped battles in midcarnage, and changed the fate of nations—and all because man is a helpless, ignorant child in the presence of the mighty movements of things beyond the earth.

It was also interesting to watch the different effects of the eclipse upon the minds of the more susceptible spectators. Some threw up their hands with exclamations, the sight being so much more remarkable than they had expected. Others showed their surprise only in their eyes, some who had been talkative and gay before putting on the black spectacles falling into a thoughtful silence afterward as if they had been convinced of a thing but half credited in advance. A few plainly regarded it as a poor show. But not one seemed to be impressed with any definite sense of the gigantic scale on which the affair was enacted or of the marvellously true running of the machinery of the solar system, bringing earth and moon so exactly back into line with the sun after hundreds of millions of miles of circling motions, that the astronomer could predict the moment of the beginning of the eclipse almost to the second.

Different Views

It depends upon the type of mind possessed by the observer whether a realization of the physical and mechanical forces, masses and movements concerned in such a spectacle heightens or abases his conception of the universe and its Creator. For some the seeming mystery of an eclipse is the source of its influence over the mind, and the plainer its underlying principles are made the less interesting it appears. Such persons believe not so much from conviction as from preference that eclipses are associated in an occult way with the destinies of men and nations. These vast shadows flitting through interplanetary space and occasionally falling across the earth are to them as dusky projections of the giant figures of gods and demons working and plotting under the cavernous dome of the firmament, where night and day play hide and seek. The clearing up of such occult mysteries is an offence to them. They prefer the dim indefinite phantasmagoria of medieval superstition to the plain and verifiable facts of modern science.

But how much more truly interesting, even in a mere picturesque sense, is the thought that the moon can cast an actual shadow, and, reaching across 240,000 miles of space, can bury the observer on the earth in a slender finger-point of night. And not less interesting is it to look upon the body of the moon placed before the sun, that very face of it which is turned earthward in silvery splendor at full moon being now, though earthward still, as black as ink because no ray of sunlight can reach it through its own globe.

What vividness of meaning is given to the law of the variation of angular diameter with varying distance when, looking at the sun covering the sun's disk, we remember that the sun is 400 times greater in real diameter than the moon, but because it is also 400 times farther away the moon can hide it all. In the middle of an eclipse, when the sun is completely hidden, if the moon should suddenly fly sunward its big black disk would shrink and a blinding burst of sunlight would appear all around it, and when it had retreated till it reached the sun it would become a black speck, too minute for the eye to see.

THROWING THINGS AROUND.

Have you the habit of "picking up" or "laying down"?

When you enter the house, your room, or the office, do you pick up something and put it away from force of habit or do you drop everything as fast as you take it off and continue to drop one thing after another till the whole place looks as if a whirlwind had struck it?

How about it?

You belong to one class or the other.

It is a great deal easier for most persons to lay things down just anywhere.

It is worth the extra effort to "pick up and put away" each thing as it leaves your hand or comes under your observation.

If you doubt it, try it for one day and receive the surprise of your life.

Also note the effect on your friends and family.

The most undesirable guest possible is the one who needlessly gets everything out of order when visiting.

The day has gone by when it is possible for an American patriot to have a valet or a maid at beck and call to put away everything as fast as taken off or misplaced, so begin at once to teach your children order and practice what you preach in this line.

WIT ENDURES WHEN AGE WITHERS BEAUTY

By Winifred Black

"KNEEL to the wittiest, bow to the prettiest and kiss the one you love the best."

Rather a good idea, wasn't it, the old song and the old game? And it's in fashion again—at the new-fashioned, old-fashioned children's parties.

It isn't smart to have dances for children any more, or evening affairs at all. We have gone back to the nice little afternoon party from two till seven with games and some cake and ice cream and a cup of chocolate or a glass of lemonade, and the funny thing about it is that the children have sense enough to like it—especially the boys.

No normal boy likes to dance, anyway. He has too much trouble failing over his feet, and then—when he steps on the girl's slippers and the girl laughs at him!

But the games of "Drop the Handkerchief" and "Kiss in the Ring" and "Spin the Platter"—oh, yes, those are right in his line!

Just to Tease!

I looked in for a minute at one of the new-fashioned, old-fashioned parties yesterday, and they were playing forfeits as sure as you live! And the solemnest kind of an owlish boy was sitting in the middle of the room blindfolded, being the judge! And, just as I came in, he said to the ill-fated lad who stood before him for judgment:

"Kneel to the wittiest, bow to the prettiest, and kiss the one you love the best," and the poor lad started out without an instant's hesitation.

He knew the wittiest, and he knew the prettiest, and he knew the one he loved the best. But did he really kiss her? I couldn't help wondering, and from a spark of teasing mischief in his eyes I am afraid he didn't. There wasn't a bit of trouble to guess who loved him the best; she was a tall girl in pink, and her blue eyes flashed fire when he kissed the wrong girl—just to tease her.

The "Wittiest"—I didn't think the wittiest girl looked at all pleased.

The "Prettiest" girl bridled and tossed her head, and grew just a little bit vainer, and the one he pretended to love the best blushed and sighed and wished—what?

Which Do You Choose?

Poor "Wittiest"—you could tell by looking at her that she would give up all her wit to be called beautiful only once.

Poor "Prettiest"—she's pretty, sure enough, but her beauty is of the frail, girlish sort that will fade before she's twenty-five, and by the time she is thirty it will be hard, for even those who love her to remember that she ever was called the prettiest anywhere.

And the one he loved best—Ah, if the love was sure to last and be true through weal or woe—that would be worth choosing, wouldn't it?

But somehow you never can tell. Love goes by faith and when it will, and neither one who loves nor wants to be loved can hold it a second longer.

The "Wittiest"—she's the lucky one, after all.

For, when the "Prettiest" is faded and love has flown, the wit and the humor of life will be there. And no one who can make a joke or even see one when some one else makes it can ever be very unhappy very long at a time.

I choose to be the "Wittiest"—don't you?

Southern Girls Can Game and Sea Food

Large quantities of meat, game, rabbits and sea food that formerly went to waste are now added to the food stocks of the country by Southern girls, who are canning them according to the methods taught by the Department of Agriculture. The report of the Home Demonstration and Canning Club Work in the fifteen Southern States shows that between two and three million girls are taking the instruction, the course including the making of bread with wheat-flour substitutes and war emergency features.

The girls put up last year 3,382,738 containers of food, the value of which was $1,511,048, all of these products having been grown on the one-tenth-acre plot which each is required to cultivate.

WRITING OF LETTERS IS NOW LOST ART

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

LETTER WRITING, we have been saying for years, is a lost art. Odd's fish! It vanished with the strange oaths and powdered wigs and silken coats of the eighteenth century.

And now, like one of those exquisite Venetian glazes whose secret was forgotten, it is being rediscovered and put to use.

The boiling cataclysm over in Europe is bringing all kinds of things to the surface, old things as well as new — Hun savagery, French valor, Italian bravery, British pluck, our own spirit of '76, machine guns and spiked clubs, seventy-mile artillery and hand-to-hand struggles, armor and aeroplanes, Greek fire and gas attacks, the latest devices of strategy commingled with the tactics of Hannibal and Caesar.

No More Cards

And with all the rest, letter-writing has come back into its own. The few scrawled lines upon a picture postcard will no longer serve.

So people who never in their lives wrote a real letter before are becoming epistolary adepts. Ah, love is a wonderful teacher!

From one of my correspondents I have received a letter so full of valuable suggestions on this score that I am delighted to pass it along.

"I am corresponding with several of my soldier boy friends," she says, "and write regularly to my 'adopted' son.

"To some people letter writing is an easy matter; to others a difficult task. I know many well-bred, intelligent people who can't fill two lines on a postcard. I believe one of the reasons is lack of concentration to the work at hand and another is a lack of sympathetic interest in the one they are addressing. I always stop to consider what will be of interest to the person to whom I am writing; I try to recall their likes and dislikes.

"If ever, these surely are the days of letter writing. In almost every home there is a vacant chair for one who has gone into service; and let the dear ones remember that there are millions of letters passing back and forth, that mail service abroad, or even at the camps, is not as good as our city delivery, but that improvements are being made each day; so let us just hope and wait and not worry because our letters may be delayed.

Send Them Cheer

"When we write to the brave lads who are away, let us think good thoughts and send them messages of cheer, and let us tell them how proud we feel of them. Let there also be in each home on the wall a slate or pad of some kind headed "Brother," "Father," "Son," "Sister," or whatever the case may be, and let each member of the family jot down on this pad any item that may be of interest to the one that is absent; set a special day apart each week and write to him, whether or not you hear from him; date and number your letters, so that he will know if one hasn't been received it was due to loss in the mail and through no neglect or troubles at home. Don't burden him with home cares or worries of any kind, and don't talk war or expect him to write you all about it. He has it on all sides, and that's the one thing he is trying to forget.

"Let each member of the family write something in that weekly letter, if it's only a line, even if you have to hold a pencil in the baby's hand and afterward explain the scrawl. In many homes where the parents are unable to write, let mother and father make an "X," so that the recipient may know the dearly loved hand has touched the paper and has sent forth a prayer for his safety. If parents have no one to write for them, any neighbor's child will be glad to help out and write the soldier boy glad, happy tidings.

"Write often, and write good things and things that will be of interest. The country boy will want to know about the crops and the new farm machinery and the livestock and the weather conditions, and the city boy will have his special interest, too. Oh, there are oceans of things to write to them about besides how badly one feels because they are away."
